- Timer (45 minutes total).
- Laptop, desktop computer or tablet – for optimal viewing and interaction (smartphones are not recommended due to screen size).
- Internet connection (required to efficiently run the Genially)
- A large table or desk
- A set of pens and papers or a whiteboard for notes

Detailed conception

A computer, laptop or tablet

Material needed

- Any connected device which allows participants to observe, use and interact with a Genially presentation (computer, laptop, tablet)
- A Wi-fi connection
- A large table or desk

Tutorial

Place the device on a table or desk with enough space around it for all the participants to adequately see the screen.

Avoid smartphones or smaller screens as they could be too complex to adequately read and navigate the interactive Genially (identifying the symbols and instructions, typing in the codes). Ensure that the screen is sufficiently big to allow proper reading of the Genially content, along with access to a keyboard, pad and/or mouse to navigate the presentation and type in the relevant codes.

Projector (optional)

The interactive Genially could also be projected onto a bigger screen or wall, with a keyboard and keypad available to select and type in the required elements.

Genially presentation titled “We want YOU to be our next model!”

Material needed

- The link to the Genially presentation:

Tutorial

Set up the Genially presentation on the device (computer, laptop or tablet).

Ensure that it works correctly by using the keyboard and mouse to navigate it and fill in the correct codes, before resetting it and presenting it to the players.

The installation of the room(s)

The escape room can be played on a simple table, with enough space for all participants to easily view and interact with the screen (phone/tablet/laptop).

For the next game

Follow the instructions to reset the game for another group of youngsters:

- Restart the interactive Genially.
- Hide or remove all the notes taken by players.
