Detailed conception

Introduction

Material needed

- A large table or desk
- A whiteboard or paper pages and pens to take notes
- Printed annexes 1 to 6

Tutorial

Place the playing cards on your side of the table or desk so as not to reveal the answers on some of their sides, with enough space for all the participants to adequately interact with the key elements. Ensure that you keep the hint cards and keycard on your side and that players do not manipulate the sets of cards before the phase that is relevant.

Annexes 1-6

Material needed

- Annex 2 – 8 eco-cards
- Annex 3 – 9 code cards + 1 hint card + 1 digital keycard
- Annex 4 – 6 quiz cards + 1 hint card
- Annex 5 – 10 feed cards + 1 feed priority guide card
- Annex 6 – Final reboot card

Tutorial

Print and cut up the cards so that each corresponding side matches and separate them into sets corresponding to each annex and phase of the escape room.

The annexes provide the front and back sides of each card set. For example, in Annex 1, page 1 provides the front of the cards, page 2 provides the corresponding back of the cards, with the top row involving correct answers and the code on their back, and the bottom row involving incorrect cards and the corresponding indication on the back.

Before printing and cutting the cards, make sure that the fronts and backs of each card set correspond to the solutions detailed in the roadmap and trainer's guide.

The installation of the room(s)

The game can simply be played on a table or desk in any type of room.

For the next game

Put the cards back into the corresponding sets and in a random order.
